Twenty-five dollars and costs was the penalty imposed upon Edward Higgins, Jr., as a result of a fight in which he engaged with Frank Sullivan at Platte Center on July 29. Sullivan had his right eye injured during the mill, and he brought action against Higgins on the charge of assault with intent to do great bodily injury. This would require that the defendant be bound over to the district court, but Saturday forenoon, after examining a dozen or more witnesses the county court found no just cause to hold him to the district court. The testimony of several witnesses showed that Sullivan was really the aggressor, and Higgins claimed that his fight was in self defence. When the case was dismissed by the court a new petition was immediately filed charging assault and battery, to which Mr. Higgins pleaded guilty and was assessed the fine of twenty-five dollars and costs which he paid.

Only one more week to the end of the season for the Nebraska state league, and then it will be all over. The Discoverers are to play their last home game this afternoon, their opponents being the Fremont Pathfinders, who have been here since Monday. Tomorrow the Discoverers will take a rest, going to Superior for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, then to Seward where they will end the season next Wednesday. The standing of the several teams in this morning's paper is as follows given.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Superior	64	39	.622
Fremont	64	39	.622
Grand Island	50	52	.490
Columbus	50	55	.476

A. C. Boone seems to have had rather more than his share of trouble lately. Some time ago he suffered a severe sprain of the back, and more recently was ill in bed for some time. Last Saturday, while at his work, he caught a cinder in his eye, and now he is laying off from his work to give it the needed attention.

The members of the Order of Owls and their families and a few friends will journey to Stevens' lake Sunday to spend the day "next to nature." The ball game that had been announced for last Sunday between the Owls and the railroad men did not materialize very strongly. That is, the boys played alright, but the day was so cool that there was very few spectators. A game has been called for September 10.

Columbus has known good things before, but probably no musical event in the history of the city has ever been looked forward to with as much expectation and eagerness as the coming of the Royal Italian Guards Band. There is probably no band organization in America today that contains so many really musical artists as this band. There are twenty-three musicians, and they are under the personal direction of Signor Vito Lacerenza. The announcement of the leadership along should be sufficient to fill the North Opera House as it has never been filled before. Lacerenza is an idealist in music. He does not believe in the music that appeals to the ear only to arouse the passion for the moment and then be forgotten. He believes in harmony and sweet melody that gives quiet and refreshment to tired souls, that pictures happy dreams and strengthens purpose. He believes in a kind of music that stimulates one to high thoughts and desire for achievement of good things. In other words he plays only the world's greatest music, such as the grand selections from "Faust," "Il Trovatore" and "Martha," the celebrated "Sextette from Lucia," the "Quintette from Rigoletto," the "Star Song from Tanhauser," the overtures from "William Tell," and "Orpheus," the "Poet and Peasant," the Pilgrim's Chorus, "Lapalmes," the Medley of 1861, and other national airs. Some of his own best compositions are interpreted throughout the program. The members of the band are, every one of them, great artists. This accounts for their extraordinary value, their exquisite shadings and superb interpretations. Four of the men are graduates of the Conservatory of Naples after fourteen years of study there. A number of them are from Royal conservatories requiring ten and twelve year's study there in before graduation. All are conservatory graduates, several having held high positions as instructors. This magnificent band is coming to Columbus for two performances on Thursday, August 31. Any one who missing to hear them will miss the greatest musical that ever offered them. The children will be admitted in the afternoon for 25 cents. The general admission are, afternoon, 35, 50, and 75 cents. Evening, 50, 75, and $1.00. Seats are going fast. Don't wait until the last minute; you may be late.

A deal was made last Wednesday by which Dr. N. Matzen sold his residence property on Fourteenth street to W. J. Walter, possession being given, today. Dr. and Mrs. Matzen expect to leave tomorrow for an extended trip to the Pacific coast, visiting first in Washington and Oregon, and then going to Southern California, where the doctor has real estate interests, and where they will visit at the home of Dr. J. E. Paul. During their absence, the doctor's office will be in charge of his partner, Dr. Snyder.

Rev. W. L. Dibble and family expect to leave Columbus about September 15, for Worthington, Minnesota, where they intend to make their future home. They report that there is a movement on foot there to effect a union of the Congregational and Presbyterian churches, making one organization of about four hundred members. It will be remembered that Mr. Dibble tendered his resignation to the local Congregational church some time ago, to be effective at any time within one year, and as he has seen this opportunity, he has decided to take it. The many friends of the family in Columbus will regret to see them leave here, and every one will wish them well in their new home.
